- Hawa Mahal - also known as Palace of Winds, in the center of Rajasthan's capital. It was designed by Lal Chand Ustad and completed in 1799. The iconic structure reflects the maharaja's devotion to Lord Krishna as its honeycomb pattern resembles the Hindu god's crown. A honeycomb with its 953 small windows decorated with intricate latticework. Through this screen a kind of architectural veil, women of the royal household gathered on the upper floors of the five-story palace to watch street festivals below and freely view the bazaar and its vibrant proceedings unseen while they remained invisible to the outside world.
